INTERIM ORDER

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. On December 13, 2000, ENERGY WEST Montana in Cascade (EWM-C), a Division of ENERGY WEST, INC., filed an application with the Montana Public Service Commission (Commission or PSC) to increase rates for propane service by $88,338, through its approved gas cost tracking mechanism. This request represents an increase of 38.9% to residential customers and 40.1% to commercial customers. EWM-C has asked for interim relief of $86,713 or a 38.2% increase to residential customers and 39.4% increase to commercial customers. Residential customers will experience a monthly increase of approximately $21.83 and General Service customers a monthly increase of $32.08.

2. EWM-C proposes to spread the interim increase for propane gas service among its customers as shown in the table below:

CLASS	NUMBER OF CUSTOMERS	CURRENT AVERAGE BILL	PROPOSED AVERAGE BILL	PROPOSED ANNUAL INCR	% INCR
RESIDENTIAL	265	$686.00	$947.00	$262.00	38.2%
GENERAL SERVICE	45	$979.00	$1,365.00	$385.00	39.4%

3. EWM-C has stated that its request for increased revenues is caused by two factors: 1) an under-recovery of its gas costs in prior periods and 2) rapidly increasing wholesale gas costs.

4. EWM-C is requesting $1,620 in an estimated carrying charge stating that a large under-recovered or over-recovered balance has a significant impact on a utility of its size. Carrying costs, it argues, are a real cost of carrying balances, it is a cost that the company or the consumer incurs and it should be compensated for all costs associated with the commodity supply service. Carrying costs are not included and the need for its inclusion will not be addressed in this interim order.

5. EWM-C is requesting a monthly propane gas cost adjustment. EWM-C argues that a monthly propane cost tracker has the objective of making gas costs reflective of the market in a timely manner, promoting customer understanding by pricing closer to actual price-affecting events, providing proper and timely price signals to customers and minimizing the unreflected gas cost account balance to avoid cost shifts from one period to another. The EWM-C request for a monthly tracking adjustment will not be addressed in this interim order.
